Seminar on Intellectual Property Rights (IPR)

A seminar on Intellectual Property Laws on the topic 'Nexus between Intellectual Property and Competition Law' was conducted on 3rd February 2020 at 4 pm. In India, Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) and Competition Law are two significant legal frameworks that control all areas of business and innovation. While they handle separate issues, there is a link between the two that seeks to achieve a balance between encouraging innovation and guaranteeing fair market competition.

Pragati Suryawanshi, the chief presenter for the lecture introduced the attendees to the basics of Competition Act, 2002 and its critical role in encouraging and preserving healthy competition in the marketplace. She then focused on the point of contention between innovation and competition, emphasising the importance of striking a balance between the two, as well as how the two laws complement each other to foster healthy commerce without sacrificing originality of the creation.

The seminar helped students realise the need of striking a balance between encouraging innovation and guaranteeing fair competition. It also encouraged them to make informed decisions and emphasised the importance of complementing intellectual property laws with competition laws in order to comprehend the broader legal framework, avoid anti-competitive practises, balance public interest, facilitate licensing and technology transfer, ensure compliance, participate in policy development, and navigate the international landscape.

Constitutional Law

Frequently Asked Questions on Constitutional Law

Q. 1 Discuss the salient features of Indian Constitution.

Ans. The Constitution of India is largest and most detailed Constitution in world. It originally consisted of 395 Articles divided into 22 parts and 8 schedules. The framers of Indian Constitution sought to incorporate the good provisions of all the existing constitutions of different countries in the world. Indian Constitution has borrowed Parliamentary system of Government from British Constitution. Framers of Indian Constitution incorporated provisions of 'Fundamental Rights' from the Constitution of United States of America, 'Directive Principles of State Policy' from Ireland. Power of Judicial Review to the Supreme Court has been taken from the Constitution of United States of America. Similarly India's federalism has been benefited from American provisions in this area. The Constitution of Canada and Australia have also been used to some extent for laying down some provisions of Constitution of India. The Constitution of India Occupies a unique place among the federal Constitutions of the World. This is due to its distinctive features. The chief characteristics of Indian Constitution are as follows :-

1. Longest Constitution of the World - The Indian Constitution is lengthiest and most detailed of all written Constitutions of the world. While the American Constitution originally consisted of 7 Articles, Australian Constitution 128 and Canadian Constitution 147 and Indian Constitution originally had 395 Articles. But till 78 the Amendment Act, of 1995 it consists of 443 Articles.

The Indian Constitution lays down the structure not only of Central Government but also of the States. The American Constitution on the other hand leaves the States to draw up their own Constitution. Because of peculiar problem of India like population, minorities, schedule class, Schedule tribe community peoples it had to incorporate many provisions.

2. Democratic form of Government. - The Constitution of India constitutes India into a sovereign democratic republic. It thus provides for the establishment of a democratic form of government in the country. Justice, Liberty, Equality and Fraternity which are essential characteristics of a Democracy are declared in the Preamble as the very objectives of the constitution. In a Democracy the Government
